Killer in Your Pocket is an informative yet entertaining & fast-paced docuseries exploring how to survive in a world packed full of dangers.

Dying for Vanity

Pumping parties, breast implant disease, and SnapChat filter faces: We peer behind the trends in plastic surgery to reveal the hidden dangers of all the most innocuous-seeming procedures.

Dying for Approval

Social media gamifies social interaction: a game most of us are losing, yet can't stop playing. Can we put down our phones, tablets, and laptops long enough to experience the best moments of real life?

Dying for Hygiene

After COVID-19, society is getting a huge wakeup call. We go behind hygiene practices in the food, travel, and fitness industries to uncover all the dangers of outsourcing your cleanliness standards to others.

Dying for Fitness

Excessive exercising, CrossFit injuries, and protein powders: When does exercise actually become unhealthy?

Dying for a Hit

Vaping was meant to be safer for us than smoking cigarettes – that is, until a world-wide outbreak of lung disease in vaporizer users. We penetrate the vaping trend to reveal the epidemic of lung disorders attributed to the new, fashionable smoking alternative.

Dying for a Fix

We go behind the prescription drug addiction crisis in the USA & beyond.

Dying for a Buzz

All the reasons why legal highs are just as scary, if not more, than illegal ones.

Dying for a F&%*

Chemsex parties, killer kinks, and murderous Tinder dates: Dating in the 21st century can be perilous. We reveal how to protect yourself while still getting your freak on.

Dying for Community

Online fandom can be tons of fun... until it turns abusive: How cyberbullying leads to suicide – and even murder.

Dying for a Snack

We delve inside the obesity epidemic and explore the science of why we can't stop eating the things we know are poisoning us.
